present:

Noshing with Notables

Informal lunch talks with successful public policy experts about their careers and career paths

Featuring:

Peter Linquiti & Theresa Gullo

Peter Linquiti served as Executive Vice President at ICF International, a global consulting firm focused on energy and environmental policy prior to joining the GW faculty. He has supported public sector clients in all phases of the rulemaking process including technical and economic background analysis, preparation of Regulatory Impact Analyses and Regulatory Flexibility Analyses, and the analysis and summary of public comments on proposed rulemakings. Professor Linquiti's substantive work has focused on public policies related to air quality, climate change, hazardous and solid waste, drinking water, risk assessment, and publicly-funded R&D on new "green" technologies. At GWU, he teaches the core policy analysis methods class in the MPA curriculum and an undergraduate course on sustainability and environmental policy. Professor Linquiti holds a PhD in public policy and public administration from GWU, and an MPP and BA in Political Science, both from the University of California at Berkeley.

Theresa Gullo is Deputy Director of the Budget Analysis Division at the Congressional Budget Office. In that capacity, she manages the division's work in the areas of natural resources, transportation and infrastructure, agriculture, energy, defense, international affairs, veterans' affairs, housing, and financial institutions. Prior to assuming the Deputy position, Ms. Gullo managed the State and Local Government Cost Estimates Unit at CBO and served as an analyst in the Natural and Physical Resources Cost Estimates Unit. Before coming to CBO, she was an associate at the Urban Institute, conducting research on a variety of public finance issues including infrastructure investment and state implementation of federal block grants. She graduated from Scripps College with a B.A. in American Studies and received a master's degree in Public Policy from the University of California at Berkeley.

Noshing with Notables provides an opportunity for George Washington University students to meet and engage with successful policy practitioners in an informal setting over lunch. Our "Notables" are public policy experts from the government, private sector, academia, and non-profit entities.

The George Washington University Regulatory Studies Center aims to raise awareness of regulations' effects and improve regulatory policy through research, education, and outreach.
